

The red teddy was given as a Christmas present in 1932 to Audrey Noël Hume, who lived at Melbury Gardens, Wimbledon. The teddy survived the bombing of the house in 1944 alongside a top hat and a chamber pot. The rest of the house was destroyed. It was donated to the Museum in 2016, from Virginia, USA.